GOTHAM BATTLES WITH ICE AND SNOW

New York Marshalls All of Its Forces in an Effort to Free Itself From Grip of Great Storm Reminiscent of 1888—Traffic Curbed by Mayor

(By Associated Press.)

New York, February 7.—Snowbound New York marshalled all its forces today in a great effort to extricate itself from the paralyzing grip of a storm that has reminded old timers of the classic blizzard of 1888.

Spurred by the mayor's proclamation urging suspension of all but vitally necessary trucking traffic for a period of three days, big trucking corporations, the great department stores and others turned over their autos and drivers to cart the snow to piers, where steamship companies loaned their employees for the task of dumping it into the harbor.

Hundreds of stores set their employees to work with shovels, and the street cleaning department, still short about 10,000 shovellers, renewed efforts to obtain more men.

Trucking was restricted to those engaged in moving food, fuel, milk and newspapers. Private passenger cars were barred from the city streets until Tuesday.

Chief Executive in a Letter To Democratic Senators Reiterates His Objections to Any But Interpretative Reservations to Treaty.

Democrats in Conference United in Determination to Aid in Every Possible Way to Expedite Ratification.

Hitchcock Declares, However, That There is No Change in Attitude of Democrats On Article Ten.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, February 7.—After listening to a letter from President Wilson reaffirming his stand against any but interpretative reservations to the peace treaty, democratic senators decided in conference today to proceed with their previous plan to help bring the treaty up in the Senate Monday and to work for a reservation compromise.

The letter is understood to have expressed the President's willingness to accept any interpretative reservations that the democrats might frame but to have omitted discussion of any specific reservation proposals.

A long discussion to which some senators are said to have urged that the democratic leaders be more compromising in their attitude followed submission of the communication.

The only formal decision reached, it was announced, was to aid in every way possible the move to take up the treaty and expedite its ratification.

In his letter, sent to Senator Hitchcock more than a week ago, the President is understood to have approved the Senator's course in the unofficial bipartisan compromise negotiations then in progress. Senator Hitchcock said afterward that the conference developed no dissent from the bipartisan committee's conclusions.

He said, however, that the course of the democrats in the Senate next week would be shaped by the moves made by the republicans.

He declared there had been no change in the attitude of the democrats and that they remained as determined as ever not to accept the republican reservations to Article Ten without modification.

ASTONISHED AT ATTITUDE OF THE BRITISH

(By Associated Press.) Paris, February 7.—Astonishment has been caused in French circles by the change of attitude on the part of the British Government regarding the extradition of Germans accused of violation of the laws of war.

While it was understood that Great Britain was most interested of all powers in demanding the trial of those Germans, information has been received showing that there is a tendency on the part of the British to leave the initiative to further steps in the process of extradition to others.

It is said that Premier Lloyd George objected only to the form of the covering note, but Baron Birkenhead, Lord Chancellor of England, is understood to have made it clear the British government favors a radical modification of the list in order that an agreement with Germany may be reached.

ALLIED COUNCIL DECIDES COURSE

Extradition List is to be Delivered to German Government By French Charge at Berlin—Ambassador's View is That Question Now Up to Germany.

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, February 7.—Delivery to the German Government by the French charge d'affaires in Berlin of the list of Germans whose extradition is demanded by the Allies is the proper course to pursue in the existing circumstances, the Council of Ambassadors decided today.

Its action was made known through an official communique. It is understood that in the discussion of the question, the ambassadors took the view that the entire question is up to Germany and that further steps by the Allies should await action of the German authorities.

A later official announcement stated that the council at the morning session drew up the text of a note to accompany the list of accused persons.

FATE DECIDES WRANGLE OVER GIRL INFANTS

(By Associated Press.) Atlanta, Ga., February 7.—Fate took a hand yesterday in the tangled claims to blue-eyed Mary Elizabeth and brown-eyed Louise Madeline, eight-months-old babies over whom two mothers were going to court today.

Pneumonia claimed Mary Elizabeth, whom neither mother wanted, and the other child fell into an open grate, sustaining burns to her face that physicians said might prove fatal or mar her looks for life.

The children were born the same day in a local hospital, and recently Mrs. John C. Garner announced that the blue-eyed child given her was not her own, but that Louise Madeline, the brown-eyed girl was hers.

Mrs. Daniel L. Pittman, to whom nurses at the city hospital gave the brown-eyed child, maintained it was her own.

WILSON AGAINST FOREIGN AWARDS

Naval Secretary Daniels Discloses That the President Informed European Governments He Did Not Wish Decorations.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, February 7.—After Congress passed a law permitting American officers to accept decorations from foreign governments, President Wilson directed the State Department to inform all European governments that the United States did not wish any awards made, Secretary Daniels disclosed today before the Senate committee investigating naval awards.

Before the President acted, Mr. Daniels said, Rear Admiral Sims had been informed by the chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the passage of the law and had accepted a decoration from the King of England and had authorized Admiral Rodman and Rear Admiral Strauss to accept similar decorations.

Admiral Sims was informed by Secretary Daniels of the President's action and he wrote asking whether he should return the medal to the King, the secretary continued.

Daniels said he replied that in view of the action taken, presumably before President Wilson's request reached the King, there was nothing that could be done and that the decorations already accepted could not be returned.

Admiral Sims was in favor of foreign decorations for American naval officers, Mr. Daniels continued, holding that they would help the morale. Mr. Daniels told the committee he took an entirely different view and had never desired American officers to accept any decorations from foreign governments.

HARTMAN THEATER

(Columbus, Ohio)

Julia Sanderson and Joseph Cawthorne are coming to Columbus. They will be seen and heard in the widely heralded Dillingham musical comedy production, "The Canary," at the Hartman theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 12, 13, and 14, following a six-months' engagement at the Globe Theatre, New York, and extended runs in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. "The Canary" has been produced on a lavish scale, comparable with Fred Stone's big hit, "Jack O'Lantern" and vehicles for Elsie Janis, Raymond Hitchcock and other Dillingham stars. Miss Sanderson and Mr. Cawthorne have been co-stars under the management of Mr. Dillingham for a number of years and "The Canary" rounds out long series of successes. Both stars have unique place in the theatre, for Miss Sanderson is the only ingenue appearing in musical comedy and as a comedian Mr. Cawthorne enjoys a distinction all his own. Not content with this combination of stars, the producer has added several other members of a featured cast which includes Doyle and Dixon, conceded to be the most famous dancing team in America; Maude Eburne, the noted character comedienne, and others. The story of "The Canary" concerns the loss of a famous diamond known by that name, and is from the French by Georges Barr and Louis Verneuil. The chorus of this production is described as one of "romping loveliness" and "the happiest and snappiest that has ever been brought together." Ivan Caryll and Irving Berlin provided the musical score and Joseph Urban painted the splendid scenic investiture.

On Monday, February 16, the Hartman offers a return engagement of that comedy of comedies, "The Boomerang," which has won such a warm place in the hearts of all theatre-goers. The engagement is for three days only, with a matinee on Wednesday. Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes are the authors and David Belasco the producer. Robert Connors, Harry Bayda, Eugene G. Harper, Carlton Rivers, Lillian Concord, Devah Morel, Helen Strickland and others are in the cast.

Mail orders are now being received for both engagements.

Profitable Investments !

An investor should know the management of the business and if they are successfully directing other enterprises they are safe to trust. If the product manufactured is in universal demand and increasing, this is another good guide; location and access to market another.

The three are combined in the Akron Maderite Tire and Rubber Co. securities. You ask why is it so profitable and why will it continue to prosper.

Here is some figures which partially answer the question. We manufactured 3700 automobiles in 1899. We made 1,586,787 in 1919. Manufacturers expect 2,000,000 for 1920. Each year shows a heavy growth, greater even than the supply. We have in use 6,500,000 of them, all paying dividends to the holder of rubber securities.

Why say more. Isn't this ample evidence that the business is profitable? You can share by investing today in the 7% tax free securities with a bonus of 50% common stock. This offer can't last long. I can give no promise as the 50% bonus of common stock may be withdrawn at any moment. I can only say, don't delay if you wish to avail yourself of this opportunity.

Worthy of Consideration

While organized society is exerting every power to beat back the wave of red radicalism which, risen to flood tide in Russia, has wrought ruin in that once mighty nation, prostrating all governmental authority, confiscating property, jeopardizing the lives of individuals, brought commercial and industrial paralysis and famine to scores of millions of people. It is well to search for the cause of the malady which has seized so many men.

It seems clearly apparent that the radical rabble, which would destroy all government and all social order, is not responsible for the very logical presentation of Bolshevik doctrine nor for the very effective way, so far as the masses of the Russian people are concerned, in which the affairs of Lenine and Trotzky are being administered.

Organized society must recognize that the directing force of Bolshevism and communism is made up of men of brains.

The educational institutions of Europe have trained men for years in political economy and commercial science, they have equipped instructors with new and progressive ideas with great ambitions and great hopes.

Since the outbreak of the war their hopes have failed of realization. Students and instructors have seen the manual laborer better rewarded for his efforts than the trained scholar. They have left the universities equipped to instruct the people, old and young, by lectures from the platform and by teaching in the classroom. They have, in many instances, found it impossible to stifle their grievances against a social and commercial order which has denied them the wage paid the hod carrier or the day laborer. Their disappointments have taken form in the shape of radical ideas which would overturn existing conditions and reform society in accordance with their theories based on recognition of mental ability.

In the suffering masses of Russia and Europe their warped doctrine has found ready response in the formation of a direct action, rule by might, regime which has already engulfed Russia and menaced the whole civilized world.

* Thus far America has escaped the dangerous flood, save in a few industrial groups.

But it is well to recognize the importance of the instructors of the land and accord them a wage equal at least to that demanded by and paid to the man who uses only the physical powers with which a generous nature has endowed him. It seems the part of wisdom to harken to the just request of those who have equipped themselves for public instruction.

Higher Prices Undesirable

Further increases in the cost of commodities are inconsistent with this country's welfare, it is declared by the National Bank of Commerce in New York in the February number of its magazine, Commerce Monthly. In its Market Letter, the bank points out that of twenty-six staple products quoted, seventeen showed a gain last month over December prices, while only four showed a decline. "Moreover," it adds, "only in the case of one or two increases can the rise be ascribed to causes operative in the market for that commodity alone."

"For a considerable period, the volume of commercial and financial transactions has been out of proportion to the physical volume of production on which they were based. Steadily rising prices have been a reflection of this situation, which is evident to all who are accustomed to look beyond the surface indications."

"Although special interests may find advantage in these recent advances the welfare of the entire commercial and industrial community is best to be served, not by price increases, but by a stabilization of the entire situation. This has now become a matter of necessity, since banking facilities are under a heavy burden in the effort to furnish adequate credit accommodations to those essential productive enterprises on which the economic welfare of the country must always rest. If production and consumption can be quietly directed into those channels which an intelligent policy of credit conservation indicates, the situation has within itself the elements of self-adjustment. The ultimate interest of every individual enterprise requires that this be accomplished, and the entire business thought of the country should be directed to this end."

AFTERMATH

The boatwain does not pipe us now, the coxswain does not call;
We do not stir at reveille and rise to curse it all.

Gone are the watches, ships and crew;
the danger, toil and strife;
The war is over now and we are back in civil life.

Yet shall we, shall we soon forget that life of yesterday,
The ships, the men, the ports, the stars, the seas, the open way?
In future years amid the joys of friends and home again
Will dreams not come like rising tides to haunt us now and then?

Will dreams not come like Chanel dawns to tow us from the room?
Will ships not rise before our eyes and beckon in the gloom?
Shall we not hear as through a fog
some lonely bell buoy ring.
And yearn again for ships and men and high adventuring?

Aye, memories shall come again like mists above the sea,
And all the years ahead shall know and breathe the used to be,
The used to be of ships, of men, blue water, wind and skies—
And who, shipmates, among us now would have it otherwise?

Sector.

Shouts of enthusiasm from the hearty young lads of Jungletown, all bearing toward taxi, hotel, cafe, theatre, the Pennsylvania Station, all intent upon going somewhere to spread the great news and to sing again the songs of victory! How full of enthusiasm it made the Woman feel, as they swept past her with a swish of smart well cut skirts below fur and befringed coats, ribbons jauntily flinging victorious orange and black or defiant Yale blue against the great coats of the college men—a laughing gay throng of young Americans. The Woman felt a presence at her side; she turned to find a ragged man, old before his time, his eyes bleared, his red hands clutching at the broken remnant of what had been all through that wonderful afternoon a great orange colored chrysanthemum. It had fallen from the coat of some belle of the game as she rushed by with her champion. The man cupped his hands and held the lovely bit of color close to his face; he was alone—in a garden perchance. Who knows? Just rosemary for remembrance? Why, it takes just a flower.—New York Sun.

DEED OF TRUST TO JESUS CHRIST MADE IN MISSOURI

(By Associated Press)

Moherly, Mo., February 7.—A deed of trust, turning over to Jesus Christ 120 acres of Randolph County land near here, has been found in the Randolph County Court House. It was made 70 years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Wright, who were said to have been very pious.

After the couple's death, their descendants continued to live on the land and have never contested the instrument. In part, it follows:

"This indenture, made and entered into this 6th day of June, A. D., one thousand and eight hundred and fifty, between Johnson Wright and Eliza Jane, his wife of the County of Randolph, and State of Missouri of the first part and the government of chief administrator, King of Righteousness, the Son, the Fountain of Life, to the General Assembly and church of the first born which are written in heaven, and to God, the judge of all, and Jesus, mediator of the new covenant and to the blood of sprinkling that speaketh he died for us."

Continuing, the deed describes the tract.

DAYS OF THE WOLF AND THE COYOTTE ARE NUMBERED

Bismarck, N. D., February 7.—(By Associated Press)—The wolf is passing in the North west. Numbered, too, are the days of the coyotte wont to slink silently upon herds of unsuspecting domestics or sit out on the open plain howling to his mate.

Throughout the prairie domain which these one-time monarch ranged masters of all within survey, hundreds of open jaws of steel and iron wait nightly for them and their predatory brothers—the Lynx, the bear and the bob-cat.

The traps are not the snares of the gamsters and sportsman of early days. They represent the strong arm of the law as wielded by official federal, state and county hunters.

In charge of the extermination of predator animals in North Dakota and Montana are J. F. Gillings and R. C. Bateman, inspectors of the Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington, with headquarters at Billings, Montana.

MICHIGAN AND WISCONSIN GET INTO ARGUMENT

Marquette, Mich., February 7.—(By Associated Press)—A controversy is developing between the states of Michigan and Wisconsin over approximately 400 square miles of territory that is now included within the boundary of Wisconsin. A triangular strip of territory bordering on Gogebic county and including Hurley, the county seat of Iron county, Wisconsin, is the cause of dispute.

Governor Sleeper has appointed a commission to investigate the dispute. The contention is based on the fact that Article 1 of the Michigan constitution defines the state's boundary so as to include the territory involved.

FOREST FIRES COST BIG SUMS

Calumet, Mich., February 7.—(By Associated Press)—Forest fires in the upper peninsula of Michigan last year cost $302,936 and the cost of extinguishing them was $37,396, according to the state, fish game and forest fire commission. The loss for the whole state is given as $406,855, showing that three-fourths of the fire damage done was in the upper peninsula.

MOLDERING RUINS OF HUDSON BAY CO. POST ARE REMOVED

Edmonton, Alta., February 7.—(By Associated Press)—The removal of the last moldering ruins of the old Hudson's Bay company's fur post, which stood in the shadow of the present provincial capitol, marks the passing of Edmonton's earliest landmark.

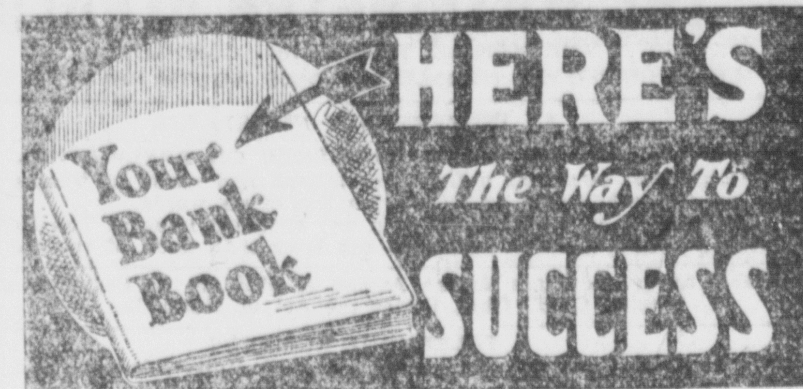

When this old fort was founded in 1795 it was the most western point of civilization in Canada. The prairies about it were black with buffalo and the streams full of beavers. As late as 1875, the high stockade that originally enclosed the fort was still standing.

Settlement began to increase in 1891 when the Canadian Pacific Railway reached Edmonton. During the previous year the Hudson's Bay Company had constructed a store on the northern trail, now Jasper Avenue. This was succeeded in 1894 by a two-story frame building which was then looked upon as the finest establishment of its kind west of Winnipeg.

It was at this store in 1896 that thousands of gold-seekers obtained their outfit for the Klondike. Few of these adventurers ever arrived at their destination, many leaving their bones to whiten the trails of the wilderness.

LOT OF THE VERY RICH IN GERMANY WILL BE HARD ONE

Berlin, Dec. 25. (By Mail)—The lot of the multi-millionaire in Germany will be a hard one under the new emergency levy and income and inheritance taxes. Dr. Felix Pinner financial writer of the Berlin Tageblatt estimates that under these taxes a German industrial fortune of 10,000,000 marks would be reduced by 1925 to 3,114,000 marks. This would mean that the state has taken nearly 7,000,000 marks by various forms of taxation designed to solve the tremendous financial problem Germany faces. Of the amount so collected by the state Dr. Pinner estimates that 2,827,000 marks would be taken as taxes on war profits while the emergency levy would take 2,737,000 marks. This would leave the millionaire about 5,500,000 marks at the end of the 30-year period in which this levy would be collected.

Dr. Pinner points out, however, that the older industrial leaders who own most of the German industries probably would die in the first 10 years of the 30-year period, whereupon that part of the levy then remaining unpaid would be taken by the state.

If the owner of this fortune were to die, say in 1925 and should leave but one son, the son would have to pay to the state as inheritance tax 1,289,000 marks. The balance after all taxation had been completed is placed by Dr. Pinner at 3,114,000 marks which the family of the industrial leader would have left to continue their business.

SEA AIR ROUTE

London, January 26.—(By Associated Press)—(By Mail)—British government agents have proposed an air route between Europe and South America via Paris, Madrid, Rabat, in Morocco, Bathurst, on the west coast of Africa, and thence by a 1,450-mile ocean route to Pernambuco. The ocean passage is comparatively short and lies in a region of equatorial calm.

Milk Makes for Thrift
Milk Promotes Health

Thrift calls for the plentiful use of pure, fresh, clean Milk, because you get more real food value for the money than in solid foods at current prices.

Health dictates that you use more Milk because of its digestibility and the ease with which it is assimilated by the system.

In sickness Milk should occupy a prominent place in the diet of the patient; persons who have run-down systems and disarranged digestive organs will find Milk an ideal food, a wonderful builder and extremely easy for the weakened system to take up its vitalizing elements.

In all cases Milk must be considered the one food almost universally adaptable. You should use more of it.

BLUE AND WHITE SUFFERS DEFEAT BY MCCLAIN HI

For the First Time This Year a Washington High Team is Defeated.

Score That Brought Victory Also Brings Defeat.

For the first time this year and for the first time since Coach Moorehead took the athletic reins at Washington High School the Blue and White was forced to bow to defeat Friday night in Greenfield when McClain High triumphed on the basketball floor by a score of 22 to 11. Not only was the score 22 to 11 but it was the same score by which Washington defeated the McClain squad on the local floor in the first game of the basketball season.

Coach Moorehead's men gave all that was in them and were defeated. After playing on the small local floor they were somewhat lost on the roomy precincts of the McClain court and were beaten out in the second half by the better passwork of their opponents.

Never but one time were the Washington boys ahead. At the end of the first quarter the Blue and White led 4 to 2. When the gun cracked at the end of the first half the Greenfield team was leading by one point 7 to 6. In the second half Greenfield developed a system of dazzling passwork that sent the ball up under the McClain goal and for the baskets.

Then a few seconds before the end of the game Johnny Deen, of football fame, playing at guard in the last final effort to stave off defeat that was setting over the Washington squad, looked at the score board and saw the score standing 20 to 11. Just to make it identical with the score his team had defeated McClain with in their first game he pitched the ball through the Greenfield hoop and won the everlasting gratitude of the Greenfield community.

Washington High accepts the defeat as the annual dose. Greenfield has a habit of winning from the Washington team on the McClain floor at least one game each year.

SNOWFALL BOOSTS PRICE OF POTATOES

Ashland, Wis., February 7.—(By Associated Press)—The heavy snowfall in Wisconsin is playing an important part in boosting the price of potatoes and other farm commodities, according to local dealers. Not in years has the cold been continuously as intense as this winter. Not in years has there been such a snow fall. In many parts of northern Wisconsin the roads have been filled with snow to a depth of four to five feet, as a consequence no potatoes have been brought into the cities for weeks. The price of potatoes continues to rise and this is more or less true of butter and eggs and other products. It is expected that when potatoes and other farm products begin to flood the markets in April the prices will be forced down at once. At present they are rising.
